Trento / Luxembourg, 24 November 2025 – The European Investment Bank (EIB) and GPI S.p.A. ("GPI" or the "Group") – a leading provider of software solutions and services supporting the digital transformation of healthcare, listed on the Euronext Milan Tech Leaders market – have signed a €50 million loan agreement to support the innovation of the Group's software and robotics.

The transaction, structured with the support of Banca Finint S.p.A. as Arranger, is the EIB's first financing for GPI and aims to support, for the 2025-2028 period, the investments outlined in the Italian multinational's industrial plan.

The funds provided by the EIB will contribute to supporting investments across the entire offering portfolio of healthcare software solutions. In particular, the financing will accelerate the evolution of Gpi4Med, GPI's integrated software solutions platform, which is the focus of the Group's global growth and covers highly complex areas such as Blood & SoHo (blood donation and transfusion, and other substances of human origin), Diagnostics (analysis laboratories, pathological anatomy, imaging), and Critical Care (anaesthesia, intensive care, and operating theatres). The investment plan also includes, to a lesser extent, updates to automated systems for the management and traceability of medicines intended for hospital facilities.

The main investments will be carried out at GPI's sites in Italy and, to a smaller extent, in France, some of which are located in cohesion regions. The EIB credit line offers a flexible, long-term financial structure designed to support the gradual implementation of investments in line with GPI's industrial plan.

Gelsomina Vigliotti, EIB Vice-President, stated: “This financing confirms the EIB’s commitment to supporting technological innovation and the increasingly strategic role of digital health, especially in a context marked by rising healthcare costs and an ageing population.”

Fausto Manzana, CEO of GPI, said: “This financing supports us on a decidedly important growth front—the innovation of our solutions—within a market context where concrete answers are necessary to meet new healthcare demands. We are particularly pleased that a prestigious credit institution like the EIB recognizes GPI’s strategic role in the healthcare sector and the value of the investments we have planned to support our 2025-2029 industrial plan.”

Alberto Nobili, Head of Corporate Investment Banking at Banca Finint, commented: “We are proud to have supported this financing transaction, which is a tangible example of how European finance can foster innovation within the industrial sector and in a key area such as healthcare in Italy. Working alongside an excellent partner like GPI strengthens our long-standing presence in Trentino-Alto Adige, a region where Banca Finint has been rooted and investing for years. The collaboration with the EIB confirms Banca Finint’s role as a reference partner for high value-added transactions capable of combining financial solidity with positive social impact.”
